Bells for Sheep

The cheapest and best insurance wants no poise-no alarms. Belitier's, for collars-put a bell on every sheep if your flock is small. The price of one sheep will buy a gross of bells and leather and buckles enough to strap them. Put this gross of bells on a flock of sheep and they will frighten every dog out of the field. Flock-masters are slow to adopt a simple and cheap remedy like thi , but will go to the Legislature, hire lobby influence. and spend large sums of money to little purpose. Members of the Legislature are fond of dogs themselves, and do not want them texed. They own Sores, Rheumatism Neuralgia, Pain in the sheep and eye but hitle about their the Pones, Side and Head. Female no sheep and care but little about their protection. -- Southern Farmer.

The Philadelphia Times says that the American people like humor, and they appear to like it more and more every year. The demand for the humorous, the witty, and the satirical in the columns of the papers has enconraged a multitude of writers in this line, and some of the best of them are anot known out of the editorial rooms where they labor. The best appreciated humor or wit is that which is thrown into the paragraphic comment Emil on the events of the day, some of which, however, scarcely need the touch of the satirist's pen to make them ludicrons. People leaded down with the serious things of life have no particular fancy for doleful newspapers, and the people, as usual are rather sensible.

A San Francisco telegram of the 21st inst says, Lum Birg, a prominent Chinese merchant of that city, and con nected with officials of high rank in his native country, has recently returned from China. He states that in three or four weeks a Chinese war vessel, with American officers and Chinose erew, will visit this port, bringing as passengers the Chinese Consul to this port, and a large number of Chinese army officers of rank, who will make a tour of observation through the country.

He describes the famine in the nothern provinces of China as terrible. In one district of the State of Santong, last year, out of a population of 96,-000, about 80,000 died of starvation.
